Eighteenth item on the agenda

Composition, agenda and programme of standing bodies and meetings

► Part I. Composition and agenda of standing bodies and meetings

Meeting of experts on decent work in the platform economy (Geneva, 10–14 October)

1. The ILO Centenary Declaration for the Future of Work adopted on 21 June 2019 had called for “policies and measures that ensure appropriate privacy and personal data protection, and respond to challenges and opportunities in the world of work relating to the digital transformation of work, including platform work”. At its 341st Session, the Governing Body therefore decided “to convene a tripartite meeting of experts on the issue of ‘decent work in the platform economy’ in the course of 2022”.¹
2. The results of this meeting “would subsequently inform a possible general discussion or standard-setting item on this subject, should the Governing Body decide to place such an item on the agenda of the 112th Session (2024) of the Conference”.²

² GB.341/INS/3/1(Rev.2), para. 26.

3. At its 343rd Session (November 2021),³ the Governing Body approved the dates of the meeting (10 to 14 October 2022) and approved the composition of the meeting (eight experts nominated after consultation with Governments, eight experts nominated after consultation with the Employers' group, and eight experts nominated after consultation with the Workers' group of the Governing Body) as well as the list of intergovernmental and international non-governmental organizations to be invited as observers. The Governing Body deferred the decision on the scope of the meeting to its 344th Session (March 2022). In this regard, the Director-General proposes the following agenda:
- examine the plurality of the realities the expression “platform economy” encompasses, including: the different types of platforms and sectors in which they are present; the profile of the companies and workers engaged in their activities; the interactions with the labour market; and the competitive relationship between platforms and other undertakings;
 - examine the opportunities and challenges of employment generated by the platform economy, including for people facing difficulties in accessing the labour market and considering recent developments related to the COVID-19 crisis;
 - review how platforms workers are classified and the responses given by the public authorities, social partners and other relevant stakeholders to the issue of classification;
 - review the working conditions and social protection enjoyed by platforms workers, including protection of workers' personal data and existing safeguards with regard to the utilization of technologies for organizing and monitoring work;
 - examine access to freedom of association and to the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining for platform workers; and
 - provide, based on the above, guidance to inform a possible general discussion or standard-setting on decent work in the platform economy, should the Governing Body decide to place such an item on the future agenda of the International Labour Conference.

Meeting of the tripartite working group on options to ensure decent work in supply chains

4. In a ballot by correspondence held on 17 January 2022, the Governing Body decided to defer the meetings of the tripartite working group on options to ensure decent work in supply chains that had been originally scheduled on 17–19 January 2022 and 7–8 February 2022. The funding, composition and mandate of the working group had already been determined by the Governing Body at its 343rd Session.⁴
5. Taking into account the programme of meetings already approved for 2022, and further to consultations held with the tripartite constituents, it is proposed that the tripartite working group hold a single meeting from 27 June to 1 July 2022.

Invitations to observers from intergovernmental organizations, and international non-governmental organizations to the 110th Session of the International Labour Conference

6. In addition to the intergovernmental organizations for which standing arrangements were approved by the Governing Body, and which provide for their automatic invitation to the International Labour Conference, the Officers of the Governing Body have authorized the Director-General to invite other intergovernmental organizations listed in the appendix as observers.
7. Under the Constitution of the Organization and the Standing Orders of the Conference, international non-governmental organizations other than those with which consultative relationships have been established may be invited by the Governing Body to be represented at the Conference insofar as attendance at the plenary sittings is concerned, while the invitation of such organizations to be represented on committees appointed by the Conference remains a matter for the Conference itself.
8. At its 256th Session (May 1993), the Governing Body delegated to its Officers the authority to invite international non-governmental organizations wishing to be represented at sessions of the General Conference, it being understood that requests for invitations presenting a particular problem would continue to be submitted to the Governing Body through its Officers.
9. The Director-General has received requests to be represented at the 110th Session (2022) of the International Labour Conference from the organizations listed in the appendix, which have expressed interest in certain items on the agenda. These include new organizations who have requested to attend the Conference for the first time, namely:
 - the Social and Solidarity International Forum;
 - the Intercontinental Network for the Promotion of Social Solidarity Economy (RIPESS); and
 - the Federation of European Social Employers.
10. All other organizations listed have already been invited to one or more sessions of the Conference after their requests to be invited had been approved by the Officers of the Governing Body. In making their requests, these organizations supplied proof of their interest in following the proceedings of the Conference.
